- 2 envelopes:
 - An orange envelope for the day: containing refreshment tokens
 - A white envelope for the evening: containing an entry bracelet and a drinks stamping card (four drinks, one of which should be alcohol-free)

Team captains will receive a guide book with all the information needed for the race to take place smoothly.

Teams are asked to be present 30 minutes prior to the start of the event, and on the court 5 minutes before the match.

DESCRIPTION

Two courts are available. This event is played in the same way as an American pool of four teams. Each match lasts 20 minutes. For the sake of entertainment, mixed doubles matches are favoured and you are advised therefore to form teams of three or four people, maximum. Teams in each pool face each other in 20-minute matches. The winners of each pool qualify for the finals. Each player must have their own racket, but a shop is available at the complex entrance. Balls are provided.

RULES

COURT DIMENSIONS

For the doubles games, the court measures 10.97m in width (36 feet), which is 1.37m more on each side than for singles games (4 1/2 feet). The part of the singles court sidelines between the two service lines is called "service sidelines". The court is the same as that described for singles games, except that the part with the singles court sidelines between the base line and service line, on each side of the net, can be ignored.

SERVICE

Order of service must be decided at the beginning of each set as follows:

- The team which is serving the first game of each set selects the player who will serve first. The opposing team will select the player who will serve in the second set.
- The partner of the player who served in the first game will serve in the third.
- The partner of the player who served in the second game will serve in the fourth, and so on for all the other games in a set.

Player touched during a service

The service will be counted as a "fault", as foreseen in rules relative to fault of services of singles games, or, if before having touched the ground, the ball touches the server's partner or anything they are wearing or holding. But if the ball served is not a "let", and touches the receiver's partner or anything they are wearing or carrying, the server wins a point.

Error in the order of services

If a player serves when it's not their turn, the player who should have served, will serve as soon as the error has been noticed, but all points gained and all service faults are counted. If a game ends before the error has been noticed, the order of services will remain in reverse order.

The order of receiving

The order in which the service will be received must be decided at the beginning of each set as follows:

- The team which receives the service in the first game, decides which partner will receive the first service, and they receive the first service in each odd game for the entire set.

- The opposing team will select, in the same way, the partner who will receive the first service in the second game, and they will continue to receive the first service in all the even games for the entire set.
- The partners receive a service alternately during each game.

Error in the order of receiving

If, during a game, the order in which the service is received, is changed by the receivers, it must remain as such until the end of the game when the error was noticed, but the initial order in which the receivers return the service will be used again in the next game.

The rally

The ball must be hit in turn by one or the other players from opposing teams. If a player touches the ball in play with their racket contrary to this rule, the opponents score the point.

Scoring system

Scoring points during the qualifications: The teams are divided into eight pools. Matches are played as doubles. Matches last 20 minutes. The winning team at the end of the prescribed time wins. If there is a draw, the teams will then play the deciding point.

Two points are scored by the winning team. The winners must give the results to the tournament manager. In the case of a draw in the final score, the number of games won during the tournament determines the winner. The two winners from each pool will be selected for the finals.

Scoring of points during the finals: The quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals are played as one set, winning with a tie-break if necessary.
